VINTAGE CHARM, TIMELESS POSITION

Defined by vintage charm and a truly timeless position, this original 1960s home sits within a tightly held pocket where the river, local caf?s and the beach form part of everyday life. The appeal of the setting is immediate, offering a rare sense of walkability and lifestyle connection, while the home itself remains an authentic and increasingly scarce expression of its era, rich in warmth and nostalgic character.

Inside, the charm is immediate and authentic. High ceilings enhance the sense of space, while original timber floorboards, decorative cornices and retro fittings have been thoughtfully retained, giving the home a warmth and personality that newer builds often strive to replicate. At the heart of the home sits the original kitchen, finished in a distinctive buttery yellow that defines the vintage aesthetic and flows naturally from the adjoining living and dining spaces through to the sunroom beyond. It is a space rich in nostalgia, while remaining entirely functional. Separate living and dining rooms reflect the practicality of the period, while the north-facing living room enjoys natural light and a pleasant outlook to the front yard, reinforcing the home's comfortable, well-considered layout.
